"The South 40"

Tobacco growers should not neglect to apply Di-Syston granules (15%) at the rate of 25 pounds per acre. This is the best and easiest flea beetle control material that we have.

The relative price of food to other things is of interest.

USDA reports that if food prices had gone up as wages since 1952, round steak would have been selling for $2.67 a pound last February eggs for $1.61 a dozen frying chickens for $1.46 a pound and a can of peas for 50c.

Martin Strate, Executive Secretary, Virginia Beef Cattle Association puts it a different way.

If the price of steers had gone up as fast since 1950 as the price of a first class postage stamp, steers would be bringing $77 per hundred.

If beef prices had increased as much as medical care, steers would be selling at $72.35 CWT.

If the rise had been as fast as hourly pay, the figure would be $80.69.

Compared to the price of having a baby, steers would be bringing $119.13 CWT.

Compared to the daily cost of hospital service, the steers would bring $179.69 CWT.

. . . and so it goes.

• • •

Soybean prices closed at $9.83 per bushel last Friday and 44½ Soybean Oil Meal rose to $350.00 a ton in Norfolk last week.

Can you remember when meal was selling for $95 a ton and some feeders thought it was high?

• • •

Heat build up in attics may reach as high as 160 degrees F. on a hot day. A small attic vent fan may be used to exhaust some of this heat and reduce radiation downward through your home. This makes for comfort and will reduce air conditioning costs.

• • •

With the energy crisis a constant source of concern - a 5 degree F change in thermostat setting on air conditioning can result in substantial change in operating costs. A thermostat setting of 78 degrees F is adequate when the outside temperature is 95 degrees.

• • •

A USDA study shows that dropping rain (especially dry corn) from heights greater than 40 feet causes more breakage than any other handling method tested.

Broken grain is a real concern in our export trade.

More than 3,000 bulk barns for flue-tobacco have been sold this year. No additional preharvest delivery orders are being accepted.

• • •

If you are planning additional silage storage facilities for this year: better get orders placed now.

• • •

Which herbicide for soybeans? The facts are that we are still looking for a good broad spectrum material for Virginia conditions.

Some herbicides will damage soybean seedlings if they are planted 1½ to 1¾ inches deep. On our heavy soils this may be too deep.

Why not consider Treflan at ¾ pound per acre or Vedrnam at 1½ qt. per acre.

For sod planted beans use ½ pound of paraquat plus a surfactant and 1 pound of Lorox.

T. H. Tanner of the Stonewall Community examines an excellent stand of tobacco plants. This bed was treated with Methyl Bromide by the "Hot-Gas" method in late February and seeded in early March. Methyl Bromide is used to control weeds, insects, disease and nemtodes in the soil. Ideally October is the time to treat plant beds.

Homemaker Hints

By Rebecca M. Johnson, Extension Agent

The better care you take of the rugs and carpets in your home, the longer they will last and retain their good looks, and save you money. Here are a few specific cleaning tips.

1. To remove dry soiling materials like clay and mud, first remove the excess, then apply the seeds of a mild detergent mixed with water (one teaspoon to one quart of water) and a teaspoon of white vinegar. Blot dry thoroughly, and gently brush the pile.

2. To remove oily stains, scrape blot the excess from the rug surface, then apply a dry cleaning fluid with a clean cloth. Blot, and if necessary, apply the suds of the detergent, water and vinegar listed above. Dry, and if any stains remains, repeat the process. Let dry and brush the pile.

3. For stains from animals or foods (such as coffee, tea, milk, alcoholic beverages, catsup), scrape and blot the excess soil, apply the above detergent water, and vinegar solution, rinse and dry the carpet. Then apply a dry cleaning solvent with a clear cloth and let dry. Repeat if necessary, and brush the pile. Animal stains may permanently discolor the dye, so remove these promptly. For odor, borax can be sprinkled on the area.

4. Damage from cigarette burns cannot be completely removed except by retufting or re-weaving. However, for light charring, try this method: carefully clip off the blackened ends of the pile with small, sharp scissors, then apply the detergent - vinegar solution, blotting gently.

5. Carpeting on stairs takes heavy wear and should have heavier padding. Before the carpet begins to look worn, shift it downward an inch or so.

6. If pilling occurs, when the stands of fiber become knotted carefully clip the rough areas with scissors. NEVER pull to remove piles.

7. For nail polish or rubber cement, use regular nail polish remover with an eye dropper. Wait a few minutes for it to penetrate, then blot. Repeat until all of the material is removed, rinse well.

8. When furniture is rearranged, the newly exposed carpeting will be matted. This is a simple problem to correct. Wool carpeting should be steamed by placing a damp cloth on the spot and gently run a hot iron over the cloth. Quickly brush the pile. For carpet made of synthetic fibers, spray a little water on the area and raise the pile by brushing. Never apply heat to synthetics, or directly to wool.

Farm Program Certification Deadline Is June 30

Time is short and in just four weeks it will be too late for Appomattox county farmers to certify their crop and farm program acres at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) county office.

Final date for certifying is June 30.

This reminder comes from James R. Ford, Jr., chairman of the ASC county committee, who also suggests that area farmers have their cropland measured and staked so they will know for sure they are not over- or under-planting their land.

"Certification is not complicated," Mr. Ford says. After a producer plants his crops, he goes to the ASCS county office and signs the certification papers. When he signs, he is stating in effect, "I have planted so many acres of allotment and base crops."

In certifying, the producer also indicates the amount of setaside land he has and that this land is as productive as his planted acreage. "In other words," Mr. Ford says, "if the average production of the land is 125 bushels of corn or a bale of cotton to the acre, the setaside land must also be as productive."

If the farmer wants to hay or graze his set-aside land, he should tell the county office when he certifies. If he decides he wants to hay or graze the set-aside later (after certification) he also should notify the ASCS county office. Set-aside payments are reduced when the land is used for haying or grazing, and failure to notify the county office could result in loss of the payment. The producer must also maintain his conserving base acreage and plant the crop in a workmanlike manner.

Following certification, certain farms are picked at random for a spot check. These farms are visited, and program acreages checked.

Accuracy of the certification is determined by comparing actual acreages with those certified by the producer. Those found out of compliance by spot-checks may not dispose of their crops or bring their farms back into compliance, and they would lose all or part of their program payment.

Mr. Ford said that tobacco farmers may now plant their crops on land elsewhere in the county, or in an adjacent county, if they cannot plant on their own land because of flood damage.

However, the Chairman said, the producer must maintain an interest in the crops. Tobacco producers who may have to plant on farmland other than their own because of flood damage should check first with the ASCS office.

In planting on another farm, the producer gets credit for the crops just as if it had been planted on his own land, and the crop does not count against the farmer who owns the land on which the crop is produced.

Daniel Presses For Extension of Barter Program on Tobacco

WASHINGTON – Representative Dan Daniel has declared his intention of continuing to press for extension of the Commodity Credit Corporation barter program on tobacco beyond the end of the current fiscal year.

Daniel expressed satisfaction that his efforts and those of other members of Congress from tobacco - growing areas had been successful in getting the Department of Agriculture to re-instate the program beyond the May 3 discontinance. This action was taken on May 23, one day after Daniel and others testified before the Tobacco Subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee that the discontinance would be harmful to the entire tobacco industry.

The Department agreed to continue the program on tobacco and cotton for the remainder of this fiscal year, which ends on June 30. Under this continuance, tobacco barter orders would be accepted between May 31 and June 8 and again between June 21 and June 23.

Daniel immediately wrote the Department ,urging that the program be continued beyond that point "in the public interest". In his testimony before the Tobacco Subcommittee, the Fifth District Congressman said the barter program had been helpful in decreasing the stocks of tobacco held by CCC, but had also been a plus in this country's balance of payments situation. Last year, $200,690,000 worth of American tobacco, totaling more than 176,000,000 pounds, moved through the barter program.
